THANKSGIVING DAY

PREFABRICATED HOMES ANNOUNCED

ALL WOOD CONSTRUCTION

Fred H. Randall came back from Los Angeles this week with an announcement that will go a long way toward solving the material and housing problem for our people.

The H. Mackie Co. of Beverly Hills, for whom Randall is distributor here, has announced a new all wood constructed pre-fabricated house. Randall is showing elevation drawings and floor plans for 5 sizes ranging from the small bachelor home to a two bedroom model.

The designs are of attractive modernistic pattern, built of standard size framing materials, insulated, and covered on the outside with ponderosa pine and finished inside with waterproof fir plywood.

They are complete with windows, doors and built in cabinets. Plumbing fixtures and wiring are extra.

Randall says the company making these houses is well supplied with necessary materials and that he can get rapid deliveries. He also announces he has secured a financing plan for the purchase of both his pre-cut houses and the new pre-fabricated homes. Details of this plan will be available shortly.

The pre-fabricated houses come built in panels—even the fir floors are in panels—and three good men can erect the larger sizes in 3 to 4 days after the concret foundation is in.

Mr. Randall says he feels his product will go a long way toward relieveing the housing problem here, because of the availability and the short time needed for construction. Plans and specifications may be seen at his office on the hiway in Joshua Tree.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST

The valley played host this week to Frank Lloyd Wright, Jr., famed architect. The express purpose of his visit was to inspect the grading for the foundation for the huge Carvanasary to be build at Mental Physics City.

He praised the excellent job done by the R. J. Excavating Company. The work is under the supervision of Bob Jernberg, who is assigned by his engineer, John Stokes. This is the first of several large buildings that are projected for our neighboring city.

We Give Thanks

That we here in Joshua Tree are privileged to live in the healthiest spot in the world.

Sylvia June Pfeiffer, Robert Campbell Birch Married in Colorful Wedding Ceremony

Sylvia June Pfeiffer and Robert Campbell Birch were married Saturday night in the Joshua Tree Clubhouse with about 100 of the townspeople in attendance.

The ceremony by the Rev. C. D. Williamson of Twentynine Palms was the impressive double ring ceremony and was spoken before an altar made up of pinon and juniper branches flanked on either side by a large Joshua Tree, and lotted here and there with white Chrysanthemums. Topping the bank of pinon and juniper was an overhanging branch of juniper from which hung a large cluster of mistlsetoe.

The bride was dressed in a white transparent velvet gown. Her fingertip veil of white chiffon was held in place with a pearl tiara, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses with white day lilies and maiden hair fern.

The bridesmaid was Miss Lynn Braswell of Los Angeles, and Frank DeCristina also of Los Angeles was the best man.

Sylvia June is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo B. Pfeiffer who recently came to Joshua Tree to go into the building business. Sylvia then on vacation from the Ice-Capades was so attracted to the desert that she gave up her contract that she might live here. With the Ice Show she was a star attraction with her precision skating and was chosen by the artist Petty to model for one of his famous Skating Girl paintings.

Robert Campbell Birch, the groom, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Birch of Winnipeg, Canada. He has been in the Royal Canadian Air Force three

J. F. KENNEDY

J. F. Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parks with whom he lives at Long Beach came out to look over his property at Twentynine Palms. He hadn't been out this way since Joshua Tree started to grow and was surprised to see our town so built up.

Mr. Kennedy, who is past 60 years of age, was employed at the Broadway Department Store in Los Angeles for 10 years, but is now living in Long Beach where he has his own landscaping and gardening business. When interviewed by the JOURNAL, he said the fog on the coast was aggravating his sinus trouble and he was thinking seriously of coming to the desert for relief.

Woman's Club Meeting

The regular Woman's Club meeting held last Friday was presided over by Mrs. Julia Overbay, the First Vice-President, in the absence of the President, Dr. Stewart, who is in the hospital.

The Club voted to participate in the Christmas party that is to be given at the Yucca Valley School for the children in the Valleys from Morongo to the Twentynine Palms district. An appropriation of $15 was made as a contribution from the Club. Any member may donate in addition to this amount toward the party. Mrs. Becker donated 6 billfolds.

As recommended by the Board Members and passed by members present, the initiation fee for new members is to be $2 with the regular membership dues of $1.

It was decided the next meeting, December 21, would be a Christmas party, with all members invited. Each one is to bring a gift, not to exceed the purchase price of 30 cents.

Festival Appearance Here Sunday

MANY SIGHTSEERS AS WELL AS HOME SEEKERS

RENTALS IN DEMAND

A stranger driving thru this town last Sunday might have thot it was County Fair Day or some similar celebration, for such was the appearance along the hiway thru Joshua Tree.

The parking space along the highway was filled with cars as was the space around the Townsite office.

Restaurants were crowded and here and there parties and families could be seen partaking of home-prepared lunches.

The demand for room accommodations far exceeded the supply.

Many of these people were out just to enjoy the sunshine of the desert and it was an ideal day for just that. Others came looking for a place to live, and according to Chas. A. Mitchell, tract manager for the Townsite Company, there was an insistant demand for rentals. He also reported a large number of property transfers.

The housing situation in the cities is responsible for a large number of people turning to the desert for relief.

Demand for business locations is on the increase, and many of these people are from out of state, and purchases of business and court site during the past week were reported numerous.

This activity is not confined to the Joshua Tree area alone but is reported about the same thruout the valley from Morongo to Twentynine Palms.

This Thanksgiving issue of the JOSHUA JOURNAL marks the end of the first three months of our publication.

We are thankful for the privilege of living on this grand desert.

We are thankful for the reception our paper has enjoyed.

We are thankful for the cooperation and loyal support of our advertisers.

We are thankful for the hundreds of letters of appreciation we have received from our readers.

We are thankful for the growing list of subscribers, who now extend from the northernmost part of Vermont down to the State of Florida, throughout the Middle Western States, in Texas and Oklahoma and all of the Pacific Coast States.

We are thankful that we have the privilege of telling our people of the growth of our town and of the advantages and enjoyment to be derived from living in this, the healthiest spot in the world.

In the short period of three months the JOSHUA JOURNAL has been instrumental in attracting the attention of a great number of people to this spot, many of whom are already here and many more who have signified their intention to come here and enjoy a larger life with us. We are confident that in the years to come these people will be thankful that we told them about our desert.

We wish all our readers and friends a joyous and bountiful Thanksgiving.

SHARP IS THE SWORD

Mr. O. D. Thomas has a new book just off the press, "Sharp is the Sword." This is a book consisting of narrative poetry, dealing with the various principals involved in World War II. These poems are written in Mr. Thomas' characteristic and powerful style. Those dealing with Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito are positive and scorching in their excoriation of these villian.

This writer predicts that this volume of poetry will become one of the classics in time.

RE-COOPER-ATE

By DR. NORMAN C. COOPER

THE DESERT TAKES A BEATING

The recent wind storm which picked up the dust of our city and hurled it into billowing clouds and piled it in through the cracks of our windows and doors on to the floors of our dwellings should be warning enough to the first comers to stop tearing out the desert vegetation. The shrubs and grasses and other small vegetation of our desert serve as a covering and shunt the winds up into the higher atmosphere where they cannot pick up surface dust and sand and carry them about. If this vegetation was not here at all and the desert through here was completely barren then the whole area would be nothing but a dust-bowl. This is actually true in some areas of our desert. In the old dried up lake beds to our north and east we find just such barren places. Any day when the wind is high you can stand on any of the elevations about and tell just where all the old dry lake beds are in the surrounding territory by the terrific dust clouds which rise over them. At the rate the vegetation is being torn away from the streets and building lots of the townsite it won't be long until Joshua Tree will be as barren as one of the lake beds and as dusty and dirty. This will defeat the whole scheme of the place as a health resort. The location here is ideal for asthmatics, tubercular people, and others with any respiratory ailment. But people with respiratory difficulties can't live in a dust-bowl. They just have to move out and go on some place else. So the people of the townsite are taking away with one hand what they are offering with the other. This columnist has talked much about this for the past three years and has pled that it not be done. It was a college professor's theory then. It is a stark reality now especially when you get your eyes and mouth full of dust and grit when you walk out in the street on a windy day. This is exactly what happened in Oklahoma and Kansas preceding the historic dust - bowl days there. The native grasses which had grown there on the plains for hundreds of years were plowed up and the ground sowed to wheat and other small grains. When the grains were cut or dried out for lack of moisture the surface of the ground was left barren and exposed to the winds. It was only a matter of a few years until the people there had to move out and get away from it. It will take decades to get the native grasses back again as a covering. It has taken from 50 to 500 years for nature to grow the covering for the desert here. It will take that long for it to grow back if it is now destroyed. We won't live that long but let us not destroy it either for our own sake or for those who come after us.

The shrubbery has to be removed where the streets are being put in—but not for the whole width of the street where it is just left barren. The building lots don't have to be denuded at all. Cultivate the desert vegetation just where it it and it will save you disappointment and money.

WORLD TRAVELERS

Joshua Tree really has something to crow over when people who are world travelers come out to see our desert and forthwith dcide this is what they're looking for. That was exactly the case when Mr. and Mrs. Algot Lange were here this week.

Mr. Lange is a native of Norway but he and his wife have traveled and seen most of the world worth seeing. Mr. Lange, for years, has been interested in the lumber business and had offices and lived in Shanghai, China.

At the time the war broke out they had a beautiful home on an island in the Mediterranean, but had to abandon it when the war drew too close to their door step.

When interviewed Mr. and Mrs. Lange both agreed that of all the spots they have seen this Joshua Tree desert appealed to them most, as a place to settle down and LIVE.

While here, they purchased a building site and expect to return and do some building very shortly.

Lecture - Forum Well Attended

The Lecture-Forum series being conducted by Dr. Norman Cooper each Sunday at the Desertaire Lodge was well attended, there being 30 people present.

The subject was "The Living World About Us," in which Dr. Cooper explained the beginning of life on this earth thru the coming together of the basic inanimate elements of which all life is composed.

He then traced the development of both the vegetable and animal life from the lowest form to the present high state of development, and states that the process is still going on.

These lectures are highly interesting, instructive and scientific discourses of the universe, its development, and the laws of nature governing our existance here.

"Science in search of God" will be the subject next Sunday.

TOUR THE MONUMENT

Sunday afternoon Joshua Tree got a sample of what is coming when a caravan of cars arrived with sightseers from Chaffee College at Ontario.

There were 50 people in the party and they were met here by Jim Cole, the Park Superintendent and escorted thru the Monument.

The time is not far off when such entourages will be an every day affair as tourist travel returns to normal and study groups resume their activities.

November 14, 1945

Dear Sir:

I have just finished reading the November 8 edition of the JOSHUA JOURNAL. It makes a fellow kind of home-sick reading the scuttlebutt of Joshua.

As soon as Uncle Sam is through with me I will be Joshua bound. I first came to Joshua with Aunt May, later we moved to Joshua Tree. I originally came to California for my health, and the desert seems to be my cure . . . so I said to myself that Joshua is my home town.

Our outfit is moving to San Pedro the first of next week, and I am very glad to say that I'll be on the desert every other week-end.

I have been getting the JOURNAL regularly now since I have finally settled in one place, now we are moving again. I'll send my new address as soon as possible. I don't want to miss a week of the JOURNAL.

I was the first boy from Joshua to enlist in the armed forces and I am very proud of my home town.

Mr. Stewart Gear, Editor
Joshua Tree, Calif.

Dear Mr. Gear:

Mrs. Hart and I spent last Armistice Day week-end in your wonderful little community, camping out in a tent pitched on our lot there. We were there from Friday afternoon until Monday noon—a stay not anywhere near long enough; but one which was enjoyed every minute.

We wanted to call on you personally and let you know we were there, but your office was undergoing a paint job necessitating your absence, so we could not find you.

I wish to take this opportunity in letting you know how much we like the JOURNAL. We look for it eagerly every week and read every word, including the ads. It's a marvelous little paper—keep up the good work. Just as soon as we can, we will build a little "week end and vacation" cabin on our lot. Hope it may be soon.

We will be out there again in the near future for another week-end.

Sincerely yours,
Harold W. Hart.

OUR COUNTRY VULNERABLE TO ATTACK?

UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING FOR NATIONAL SECURITY

(All Rights Reserved—Editor)

My! My! My! We are a strange people. We fume and fuss about the Government and complain bitterly because things are not just right. Then we usually drop it. Individually, we are all too much inclined to do nothing ourselves to correct these faults. So often we say, "the Government doesn't do right, or it should do this or that." But we generally leave the running of the country to the professional politicians. Then we complain if things are not run to suit us.

One of the prerequisites of a successful democracy is not only an intelligent electorate but a people that also take an active, living, day to day, interest in the operation of a good government. Just the other day President Truman voiced the opinion that certain peoples of the world were not far enough advanced for self-government. He had in mind, at the time I believe, French-Indo-China, India and China.

England has always said the many million hordes of India were not able to properly govern themselves. But the desire for freedom and independence is growing in many countries. Sooner or later they must start and learn to govern even though its going to be a slow painful process. If history can be relied upon Americans were not too good at self-government in those early days when we jumped off the Mayflower and landed on Plymouth Rock. The burning desire for freedom and independence was there, however. Most Americans have been learning to govern by trial and error ever since.

Yes, we are a funny people, indeed. A short time back when we were warned about the oncoming war such prophets were hooted down and pop-popularly labeled warmongers. When money was badly needed by the War Departmnt to fortify Guam and other Pacific bases quite sometime ago, the public would not support the appropriations. So Guam and the rest were never properly fortified — you know the results.

When we needed a fair, uniform Universal Conscription Bill to pass Congress at the start of the war in order to actually save this Country from disaster, what a howl was set up. Even then, the conscription law that made our victorious armies possible, barely passed Congress by a single, one vote margin. Think of it. With victory in the bag, however, everybody these days wants to demobilize the nation's huge protective forces on the double-quick. Everybody wants to forget the war. Everybody wants to get back to business as usual—expecting something like the old times back again.

Tragically as it may seem—the old times we like to recall, will never return. Tragically as it may seem—while the fighting is momentarily over, real world peace is not yet here. In spite of our size and geographical isolation this rich country of ours, is more vulnerable to attack now than ever before. Especially so, when you ponder the fact that it is possible to wipe out—annihilate—40,000,000 people, with an atomic bomb in less time than it takes to read this sentence. Further, the atomic bomb secrets are not secrets at all. The specialized skill of manufacturing; or a new 'know-how,' or a new source of energy for the atomic bomb will most certainly be developed by some aggressive nation much sooner than we like to consider.

Far sighted and informed world leaders, with America's interest at heart, are again urg-

Know Your Neighbor

By Alice Powell Beckford

The owners of "Melody Rancho" are back in Joshua Tree after over a year's absence. During that time the house seems to have become known by its tenants rather than the owner so we feel it is time that some of the newcomers got acquainted with the pioneers who built it.

William Youker is a native Californian having first seen the light of day in Antioch, California. We have no doubt that Bill's first wail had a musical tone as he admits that as long as he can remember he has been interested in music and has been composing melodies; playing as band leader as a child and later taking it up as a profession.

From 1911 to 1914 he played in a regular Army Band and during World War 1 he was Drill Sergeant in the Medical Officers' Training Camp, Fort Riley, Kansas. It was at this time that he organized a 100-piece concert band and traveled around doing recruiting service. At the close of the war he took up music as a profession and played the trombone for many shows of all description, having traveled with minstrel shows and dramatic companies and at one time was Assistant Band leader for Ringling Bros. He has also been in the Barnum and Bailey band. After he and Gail were married he decided to try to settle down a bit and they moved to Franklin, Louisiana where he taught music and headed the town band. It was his band that was chosen as the Official Band of Louisiana for Gov. Parker's campaign at which time they toured throughout the whole state. However, Mrs. Youker's folks urged them to come to Chicago to live in order to be near her own people so Bill decided to change his vocation and tried salesmanship. He became Sales Manager for Western Laboratories, Inc., and both he and Gail studied music at the Woodlawn Conservatory of Music. While he was successful in Chicago the old lure of music was too strong and he longed to be in a band again so they moved to Iowa and he organized several school bands throughout the state. Bill says that every school band he ever conducted had its school song set to music which he composed in march time, and he has many recordings to prove this fact.

Finally Gail's health broke down and she had to get some place where there was plenty of sunshine so they decided Joshua Tree was the ideal spot on account of its fine climate and perfect water. Bill had never done any building in his life but he hung around and watched others and learned how things were done so he set to work to build a home and he is back now completing and improving it. When World War II came he felt the old army call so he decided to do his bit in a defense plant but as soon as peace was declared he came back to his little home here which he named "Melody" Rancho." Besides working on the house and raising chickens he is developing quite a nice little mail-order business writing music for lyrics composed by people who are unable to write their own.

PERSONALITY & MENTAL HYGIENE

By DR. NORMAN C. COOPER, A. B., M. A., Ph. D.

PERSONALITY AND INTELLIGENCE

The whole pattern of personality is complex and is built around many factors. Our intellect, physical make-up, habits, attitudes, education, ideals and will, are some of the more potent factors which govern the kind of personality one may build. Since there are several of these factors it is possible that an individual may possess some of them to a marked degree and be almost totally lacking in others. If this be the case then that individual cannot hope to have a good personality or even build a good one until he can work on the various factors in which he is lacking and get them up to normal or above. A person may possess the intelligence factor and yet be lacking in good acceptable habits or attitudes and so fall far short of the goal of a good personality. He may have a good physique and even a good education and still lack the ideals or will power to put all his other potentialities to work for him and thus become even a social outcast. But of all these factors which go to make up a good personality intelligence is perhaps the most important. It is true that a person can be very intelligent and still not have a good personality, but the reverse is seldom true. A person with a very poor intellect seldom has the ability to acquire a wholesome personality. There is a very high correlation between intelligence and personality.

Much has been written of intelligence. We hear much about it now in connection with jobs and occupations. Our children are tabulated and catalogued for intellectual ability in our schools and the boys in service in the recent war were all given intelligence tests to see just where they would fit in best in the occupation of combat and war and all the various ramifications of war aptitude. We can hardly turn around now but what we hear or feel the necessity for intelligence testing. It all sums itself up to this, that intelligence is probably the most important of all the bases of personality and that if one's intelligence is ascertained it is an easy step then to judge just what accomplishments he may hope to achieve in the positions and duties assigned to him. So it is of vital importance in hirng help, in assigning workers, in placing men in service, in educating children, or in judging social or anti-social types to know just what kind and how much intelligence each individual has if we are to place him in the work to which he is best fitted or get from him the maximum amount of efficiency which his ability justifies.

Intelligence testing is a new technique or comparatively new. While all or most all of our school age youngsters have had intelligence tests and their I. Q. (intelligence quotient) fairly well established many or most of the adults have never had intelligence tests. In fact it isn't uncommon at all to find people in their thirties and forties who haven't the slightest idea what their I. Q. is. We will go on with the story of intelligence testing but perhaps it is best to stop for just a while and inquire into this word "intelligence" and see what it is and what meaning we have in mind when we use the term.

Intelligence is not synonymous with education at all. It is true that an educated person has to have a good intelligence quotient, but not all people with high I. Q.'s have educated themselves. Education is something that is acquired or learned. Intelligence is inherited. We have our intelligence at birth. It coms with all the things which we inherit from our parents and oher ancestors. There are various academic definitions of intelligence but for all intents and purposes a layman's definition is as good as any. Intelligence simply means the ability one has which enables him to adapt himself to the situations he encounters in his environment. It is simply his adaptability. If he is intelligent he can adapt himself to his surroundings; if he has no intelligence or is low in intelligence then it is difficult or impossible for him to adapt himself to his surroundings. An intelligent person can solve his problems, a person with little intelligence cannot solve his problems. Then of course with this definition in mind and with this meaning of the word we can see right away that there are various degrees of intelligence ranging from persons of low I. Q. to

BUILDING NEWS

De BANDROWSKI BLDG.

After much delay due to materials and workmen, the de Bandrowski building is at least making good progress under the supervision of Tom Henning.

Framing for the second story is now going up and it looks like it won't be long until we can point with pride to our first two-story public building.

The lower floor of this building is of cement block construction and the second story of frame.

The upper floor will provide residence and a studio for the de Bandrowski's and the lower floor for a couple of small shops.

JOHN MERCER SELLS

John Mercer has sold his interests here to Logan Bybee and Charles Phillips, who have already started to finish the work that was begun some time ago. Mercer said he didn't like to leave Joshua Tree but circumstances made it necessary now, but he hopes to be able to come back at a later date.

NEW HORIZONS

ing universal military training—the training of all young men from 18 years or older. Certainly the nation needs, now more than ever, an ample and readily available, large reserve of protective security—traind soldiers, young soldiers. Never again will we have time to get ready should this country be plunged into another war. Eve nnow, after our too close victory over the Axis and with a completely (politically) disorganized world about us, countless people are opposing fair, equitable, universal military training of young men. We are a strange people.

In this war torn world where—its sad to relate—we have not yet seen the last war, let's all get behind universal military training. Its simply good, necessary national protection to insure a lasting peace; to make strong, disciplined young men; as well as to notify the world at large America will tolerate no fooling.

DESERT WIND

By O. D. Thomas

Shrewish old woman of snarling mein,
Cold is thy glance 'neath wind blown hair
Fiendishly sweeping earth's hearth stone clear
Scattering dust everywhere.

How could one on knowing you, love you,
Cherish, abide you, oft unto death
Having beheld you, untidy shrew,
Blasting the earth with your stifling breath.

But when you go, more than passing fair
Rests this lovely, sunkissed day
Nor storm, nor wind, nor any care
May sweep such beauty away.

COUNTY FREE LIBRARY

Due to the enthusiastic patronage by our community of the local branch of the San Bernardino County Free Library, it will be necessary for Mrs. Becker, librarian, to request at least another 100 books to add to the original issuance of 100. In 15 days, 114 books were circulated. With 43 readers and only approximately 55 fiction books, Mrs. Becker realizes the need for more reading material, and is taking steps to secure an adequate number of fiction books.

Psychology books are in great demand in this vicinity and it is reported they will be forthcoming.

Another requested addition to the library will be Col. Churchwood's books on the Continent of Mu. These stories are about La Muria, a continent which went down in the Pacific ocean.

Col. Churchwood spent much time studying hieroglyphics in Mexico to discover the historical facts of the continent of La Muria. His last book written just before he died was "Sacred Symbles of Mu."

WE BELIEVE THAT

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bennett of Long Beach spent the double week-end holiday here enjoying our sunshine and looking over their property, and making plans to build in the near future.

Mr. Bennett is employed in the postoffice at Long Beach and will be ready for retirement in about a year. He says he will lose no time changing his post office address to Joshua Tree.

They stayed at the Miramonte Courts while here.

PLANTS THAT GROW ON THE DESERT

By MAUDE A. FOX

(Maude Fox will be back with PLANTS THAT GROW ON THE DESERT next week.)

DICKENSONS HOME AGAIN

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dickenson are home again after touring most of the Southern States. They left here September 10, to drive to Georgia to visit Mrs. Dicknson's two children, by a former marriage. They are Bobbie Jean, 11, and Peter Steve, 7.

In the course of their travels they visited in Arizona, Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Mississippi and Georgia, and made a short trip down into Old Mexico.

Mrs. Dickenson said accommodations along the way were often next to impossible to find and several times they had to sleep in their car. She said they were mighty glad to get back to Joshua Tree and the desert.

Mrs. Amber Kline took care of Mrs. Dickenson's cats and looked after their place while they were gone.

NEW ARRIVAL

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ruesch are blessed with a baby girl, born at 12:34 A. M., Friday, November 16, at the St. Joseph Hospital in Santa Ana. The baby is named Susan Kay, and weighed 6 pounds, 11 ounces.

Mrs. Ruesch is expected to return home in about 10 days. At home is her daughters, Mrs. Helen Deakins, who will help her while convalescing, and Dorothy. Mr. Ruesch is also home for a few days of work before going back to Santa Ana to bring the Mrs. and Susan Kay home.

TO ATTEND FUNERAL

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Winter went into Los Angeles this week to attend the funeral of their neighbor Mr. H. L. Stewart.

QUAIL ON TOAST?

Mr. Carl Coffin is starting his new home on Lot 29, on Valley View Street. The house is to be 30x48 feet, consisting of a large front room and two bedrooms, and of cement brick construction.

Mr. Coffin is well known as a guitar player, who, with Larry Gray at the piano, furnishes music for many of our social gatherings. In fact, after his home is completed Carl expects to entertain friends at an open-house party.

Mr. Coffin needs his spacious house for this week-end as he is expecting Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Austin, and Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Houghton, all from Long Beach, to visit him. Mr. Davis is Superintendent of Douglas Aircraft in Long Beach and Mr. Austin is Superintendent of Douglas Aircraft in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Mr. Houghton is a First Mate in the Merchant Marine.

Mr. Coffin and Mr. Gray are to show their visitors around, get them interested in this desert and help them do a little Quail hunting.

VISIT OR WHAT?

Jack Crane and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moore left this week for a trip to Oregon. We have heard there is something more to the trip than just a vacation.

DR. STEWART ILL

Dr. Anna Stewart has been confined to the County Hospital at San Bernardino, due to a serious illness. At last report was not showing any decided improvement.

Dr. Stewart is a prominent member of our community and President of the Joshua Tree Woman's Club. We need her and hope to have her back soon.

Mrs. Maude Fox has undergone a major operation at the St. Joseph Hospital in Santa Ana. She was operated on Wednesday and is reported to have come through fine. She will probably stay at the hospital 8 to 10 days.

WE TALKED SHOP

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stuart, who used to run the Desert Sentinel at Desert Hot Springs, but sold their interest in that paper recently, dropped in Sunday and we had a pleasant half hour talking shop.

The Stuarts are planning to move into our valley sometime in the spring. The latch string is always out, folks.

COMING AND GOING

Mr. Stefan de Bandrowski spent the week-end with his wife, Louise here at Joshua Tree. Mrs. de Bandrowski, who lives with us regularly, has gone back with her husband to Los Angeles for a week on business and, of course, to be with Mr. de Bandrowski for that time. The de Bandrowski's are having a combination store and residence building built on the main hi-way here.

WISERS HAVE COMPANY

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Copp of Bell, California, spent Sunday with the Lloyd Wiser family. The Copp's are selling their home in Bell and are seriously considering buying here and making this their home. We understand that Mr. Copp is a first-rate carpenter and we sure need several like him.

SUCCESS HOPEFUL

Mr. Frank Saghirian is leaving Friday for a few days of business dealings in Los Angeles. He is anticipating some business in one of the store spaces in the de Bandrowski building.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Hart of Altadena, California, are spending a few days in Joshua Tree.

GUESTS AT ROCKHAVEN

Alice Powell Beckford entertained Mr. and Mrs. Curtis F. Martin and Miss Bertha Schmidt at her home on the hill.

Mr. Martin, salesman for Young's Market in Los Angeles, is a long-time friend of Mrs. Beckford, they having grown up together in the same town in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Martin owns property here and says he wishes his concern had several customers out here so he could have an excuse to make regular trips.

M. Hess' subdivision on the west is known as the Morongo Valley Estates and will be divided into 1¼-acre plots, highly restricted with nothing less than $3500 homes. They will hard surface the roads and put in water lines.

The other piece of land to be subdivided by Mr. Tinch and Mr. Smith consists of 48 acres adjoining Silk's Guest Inn on the north. It will be known as The Annex. They also have divided into five-acre tracts the Clarence Williams' homestead near the George Hicks' ranch.

Mr. Tinch has two large subdivisions which are practically sold out. One known as the Rim-of the World Forrest four miles west of Lake Arrowhead and the other at the famous Wagon Wheel Cafe at Running Springs.

Dick Scott, seaman first class, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scott who has been home on a 35-days leave from the battleship Essex, stationed at Bremerton, Washington, left Monday to join his crew. Of the three and one-half years that he has been in the navy, three years have been spent on the water and most of that time on the Essex. He had reenlisted and his time will not be up until July 1, 1948. His fiance, Miss Esther Wilponen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilponen, of Morongo, has agreed to complete her schooling in the meantime and it is their intentions to marry as soon as he is released from the service.

—oOo—

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilponen and two sons, Edward, Jr., and John, and daughter, Miss Esther Wilponen, left the first of the week seeking a new location in Arkansas, where they may settle on a farm that they have been planning to purchase. The Wilponen family have been in Morongo Valley for the past four years, where their sons regained their health. They came here from Long Bach, formerly living in Idaho and Washington. They recently sold their Morongo property.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillippi spent several days here the past week, returning to their home in Los Angeles, Monday. Mrs. Phillippi is suffering from pleurisy of the back, and Charles, Jr., who had been quite ill, is back on the job.

The three Barlow brothers and their families and some friends returned to Los Angeles Sunday after a very pleasant week-end at their Morongo home. Their younger brother, whom they had not seen for seven years, came up from Phoenix, and met them in Los Angeles upon their return.

The Morongo Social Club held a special meeting at the home of Mrs. J. C. Scott, Monday to complete arrangements for their bazaar to be held in Banning, Dec. 1. It is also the intention of the club members to hold a cooked food sale at the same time. Their quilt raffle is under way and the lucky party will win a beautiful hand made, wool filled quilt, to be given away Dec. 15.

JUST THINKING

By THE PACK RAT

I can't help thinking that if all the folks who are planning to do so many BIG things, but are just waiting to see what the other fellow is going to do that they might not like, would just get busy and do some of those BIG things, there would be so many BIG things done, there wouldn't be any room for the other fellow to do little things that the folks who plan BIG things, wouldn't like.

Then when strangers come to town they would be amazed at what is happening and they in turn would want to do something BIG too.

MORE ENTHUSIASTS

Mr. and Mrs. Chaput, Mr. and Mrs. Gorham and Mrs. Frances Page and daughter came out Wednesday afternoon with Steve Moninger. It was their first visit to the desert and after looking us over, Thursday, were very enthusiastic about our town.

HIGH SCHOOL HEP - TALK

By The Teen-Ager

Your reporter searching wildly for news of the week. Cannot find any class treasuries recently robbed, nor a burning school house to put in massive headlines. But while looking hopefully around, we find the first signs of Xmas 4th period as garlands of red yarn were being strung gleefully from one end of the room and back and held high from reaching fingers. Slowly but surely we start at the last end, (which we recovered after a tough struggle with Dona) and followed around winding fingers 'til at last—the end! Eureka! booties! Someone questions Lois who is painfully trying to recover her yarn. Mice perhaps? "Goats," she announces firmly. Which brought forth Dona's bright suggestion, "Goat-tees." (Pardon the pun).

Scanning rapidly thru the wild cat news, I ran across the paragraph questioning the identity of the writer of the HEP-TALK news in the JOSHUA JOURNAL. Perhaps being *mystery fans, imaginative mysteries seem intriguing. So I shall relieve them and say it is not such a mystery, for using an alien by-line, but merely a pre-cau-tion!

After literally pushing Al's bus home Thursday eve., it resulted in a headache for Matherly. We are still hopefully awaiting our new bus.

ALWAYS WELCOME

Miss Opal Cook, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook, and her friend, Lt. G. W. Dalbey, just back from 3½ years overseas, spent a few days in Joshua Tree. The Lieutenant fell in love with our town and bought a nice corner lot, on which he intends to do some building in the future. They are planning many trips to our desert town, as Opal bought a lot a few weeks ago.

GATHERING

A party was instigated by the appearance of several local people at Carl Coffin's and Larry Gray's cabin last Thursday night. Music, dancing, entertainment, and refreshments ensued. Those attending besides the hosts were Mr. Jack Poole, Mrs. Janice Hardesty, Mrs. Teresa Mathews, Mr. Frank Batters and Mr. Ray Martin.

THEY LIKE US

Lt. Shirley Barnes and Mrs. Barnes gave our town the once over this week and announced they are coming back here to live as soon as Lt. Barnes is released from the navy. Lt. Barnes comes from a family of bankers and when here, discussed the desirability of a bank in Joshua Tree. Your scribe wasn't asked but I think it would be a darn good idea.

BETTER LUCK NEXT TIME

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Thatch motored in from Ridgecrest, California, Saturday night to spend Sunday with friends, the McKibben's, only to find them not at home, and not a room left in our town in which they could sleep. So, believe it or not, in true pioneering fashion they curled up in their car and spent the night peacefully, if not comfortably.

years and wore his blue dress uniform for the wedding.

Following the ceremony the young couple were presented with a good sized roll of currency by Stewart Gear, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, on behalf of the citizens of the town, as a wedding gift of the people.

Following the cutting of the beautiful wedding cake and the reception, the newlyweds motored to Los Angeles where they will stay until Monday night, after which they will start their journey back to Prince Edward Island, Canada, where Robert will report for duty. He said he expects to be discharged about March 30, 1946. As soon as he is out of the service they expect to return to Joshua Tree to live and will probably start some business here.
